WRITTEN FOR ORONO CLAY CLUB.

TUNE—"For a' that and a' that."

Whom will ye have for President,
Vice President and a' that?
Oh, who in a' the country round
The best deserves to fa' that?
Chorus—For a' that and a' that,
Through America and a' that,
Where are the noble, honest men,
That best deserve to fa' that.

Who sees our Harry's honest face,
And who is 't never saw that?
But sweats Kentuck will win the race,
And has no doubt of a' that?
Chorus—For a' that and a' that,
Here's Harry yet for a' that;
The independent patriot,
The honest man for a' that.

For sterling worth and true whig zeal,
The Jersey Blues can show that:
And well we know their own BROAD SEAL
Is traitor proof and a' that.
Chorus—For a' that and a' that,
Here's Jersey yet and a' that;
Her independent commoner
Shall second be for a' that.

Then why should we to traitors jouk,
And it's against the law, that:
A traitor that's a graceless gowk,
Tho' President and a' that.
Chorus—For a' that and a' that,
Here's Jersey yet for a' that;
A traitor is a lousy dog,
Tho' President and a' that.

The little Fox from Lindenwald—
Protection, see him gnaw that;
His tail is dock'd his head is bald,
He's Texas-sick and a' that.
Chorus—For a' that and a' that,
Here 's Harry yet for a' that;
The poor man's friend—the champion
Of liberty, and a' that.

Then let the toast be Harry Clay,
New Jersey's son and a' that,
Our next high magistrates we pray,
For well they're worthy a' that.
Chorus—For a' that and a' that,
Here's Harry yet for a' that;
The high-souled "Harry of the West,"
The peoples' choice and a' that.

Then, boys, hurrah, for our Harry,
For him a' the folks are risin';
Sure, twenty States he will carry,
And the rest, Frelinghuysen.
Chorus—For a' that and a' that,
Here's Harry yet for a' that;
We'll make him our next President,
And no mistake at a' that.

To a Bequet of Wild Flowers—Received from Home!

BY C. D. STUART.

Ha! 'tis the Spring time soft and fair,
I feel the South wind toss my hair,
With light and music on its wings,
And odor from a thousand Springs—
But sweetest of its gifts, that come,
Are these, that deck'd my Mountain Home!

A brother's hand the garland wove,
Its flowers are consecrate to Love;
They seem to bear the spicy gale
That kiss'd me in my native vale—
A palace dell, with azure dome,
That halo's o'er my Mountain Home!

Ah, what a lore is in these flowers!
They whisper of the sinless hours
When 'mid the blushing groves at play,
My life was but an April day;
Ere I had learn'd, or wish'd to roam
So far beyond my Mountain Home!

O, bid me not one tear repress,
They waken childhood's tenderness;
These violets of fading hue,—
This gentle ivy ever true,
And to my fainting soul they come,
Like angels from my Mountain Home!

'Tis not a fancy of the heart,
It is the sweet, and sacred art
By which our memory gently twines
The spirit to its olden shrines;
The palace dell, the asure dome,
That halo's o'er my Mountain Home!

I would return a wreath as sweet,
Were flowers the children of the street,
But nay! and from my heart I cull
Life's young affections, over full,
And send them, wheresoe'er I roam,
To thee, to thee, my Mountain Home!

The Girl with her Tin Pail.

Some seventeen years ago, I was "a 'prentice boy" in the then "City of Mud," now the goodly city of Rochester. The business of which I was obtaining a knowledge, was conducted upon Exchange street, though I boarded in one of the streets in the western part of the city.

In going to my tea, I was in the habit of meeting, almost every evening, for many weeks in succession, a small, young, well dressed and good-looking girl, with a little tin pail in her hand. At length my curiosity became excited, and I resolved to ascertain, if possible, the daily errand of the girl. Having met her the following evening, I accordingly turned upon my heel, and followed her at a distance that would not excite suspicion in any one. I at length saw her enter a small shoemaker's shop on South St. Paul street. I subsequently learned that the shop was owned by an industrious young man, and an excellent mechanic, and that he was the girl's—husband. He had been married a few few months, and possessing no other capital than a good trade, a good name and a robust constitution, had resolved to economize in the article of rent, by hiring a house in the suburbs of the city. His breakfast was always ready for him by day-break, and taking his dinner with him, he saved the hour each day which most persons spend in going to and returning from that meal. Many economists would have been satisfied with the saving of as much time as this between the rising and going down of the sun; but not so with the young shoemaker. He also wished to save the hour usually devoted to tea, and therefore had that meal daily taken to him by his pretty little wife. This arrangement enabled him to spend the whole day, and so much of the evening as he chose, in the shop.

The industrious habits of the shoemaker were soon discovered, and met with their due reward. Customers flocked in upon him, and he was obliged not only to rent a larger shop, but to employ an additional number of workmen. But the increase of business did not wean him from the plan he had early adopted for the saving of time—his third meal still having been taken to him by his wife in the little tin pail.

About this time I left the city, and did not return for some twelve years. I had not, however, forgotten the shoemaker, having from my first knowledge of him, discovered the germ of success in his manner of life. I visited the spot where his old shop had stood, but it had given place to a new brick block. In vain I looked about for his sign—it was nowhere to be seen.—I was at length informed by a friend, that about two years previously he had removed to Ohio.

'Do you know any thing of his circumstances?' I inquired.

"I do. In the first place he took to Ohio about five thousand dollars in cash, from three thousand of which, invested in real estate near Cincinnati, he has already realized three times that amount. The other two thousand he put into a pork establishment, and that sum has yielded him a large profit. But even had he not resorted to speculation," added my friend, "he could not but have succeeded in life, so thorough were his business habits, and especially as those habits were seconded by such an industrious little wife."

I have recently returned from a visit to Ohio, and have again seen the shoemaker and his wife. He is but now in the prime of life, and possesses an ample fortune and an unsullied reputation for probity. Never having had any personal acquaintance with him, I enquired him out, and introduced myself to him as a Rochesteronian. This was late in the afternoon, and I very cheerfully accepted an invitation to take tea with him. Improving a moment of silence at the table, I remarked

"I fear, Mr. H., that you are not so great an economist of time as you used to be."

"Why not?" he inquired.

"When I first became acquainted with Mrs H. you would not afford time to go to tea, and she used to carry it to you.'

"In a little tin pail," said she bursting into a laugh.

"Exactly."

"Indeed, Mr. W., have you known us so long?"

I then made myself known as a former apprentice of Mr R., and was immediately recognized by Mrs. H. as one of her earliest street acquaintances in Rochester.

"But that pail—what do you think has become of that?' asked Mr H.

'That, I suppose, was long since numbered among the things that were," I answered.

'By no means,' said he with a smile, at the same time tipping a wink to his wife.

She arose from the table and left the room and soon returned with the identical pail, as they both assured me I need hardly say, that it bore palpable evidence of the ravages of time.

"But what is your object, Mr M., in preserving that pail?"

"Its associations. We look upon it as one of the earliest instruments which contributed to our success in life, and as such we shall ever cherish it."

I soon afterward took my leave of Mr and Mrs. H. and their interesting and happy family; and not a day since then has my mind been without it remembrances of The Girl and her Tin Pail.—Rochester Democrat.

The West-India Trade—the Back Track.

Attentive readers, who remember the past, and do not fail to connect it with the present, must have been struck with the significance of the resolution reported to the House of Representatives, some days ago, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, directing the President of the United States to cause, as soon as it can be done with propriety, a discontinuance of the so-called reciprocity treaties with certain northern powers—and to endeavor to bring about such a modification of our trade with the British West Indies, as will put it on the same footing as that between us and Great Britain. This resolution was received by the Locofoco House of Representatives without dissent, and thus is a signal condemnation placed by his own friends upon Mr Van Buren's policy of sacrificing the West India trade for the sake—less, even, of conciliating England, than of stigmatizing, if he could, the policy of the honest administration of Mr Adams. It was on the subject of this very West India trade, that Mr Van Buren wrote his deeply disgraceful despatch to Mr McLane, then Minister to England, to represent to the British Government that a new administration had come into power; that they renounced the "pretensions"—we think that was the very word used—of their predecessors in respect to this trade, and, therefore, they trusted that England would not hold them responsible for acts, the policy, and even the right of which they disavowed.

Yet the whole pretension of Mr Adams's administration, on this head, was precisely what a Locofoco House of Representatives now enjoins upon the President to seek to obtain, viz: the same rules and regulations, and immunities of trade, between the United States and the British West India Colonies, as exist between the United States and Great Britain herself. This was the precise pretension which Mr Van Buren, as Secretary of State, directed Mr McLane to renounce, which was so renounced; and by the renunciation of which, almost the whole navigation concerned in the trade, was thrown into the hands of British ship-owners, and our own navigation was driven from those seas. Nor was it the pecuniary loss alone, which this paper, among others, at that time, signalized as certain to ensue—but the disgrace, new until then in our annals, of the chief organ of Executive communication with a foreign government, presenting our domestic quarrels and party differences as motives for the action of such government, and pleading the fact of a change of officers as a reason for indulgence and favor at its hands.

This we denounced then, as we have ever since denounced, as degrading to the national character, and as fastening a lasting stigma upon the name of the public functionary, who could counsel and direct such a humiliating abandonment—not of "pretensions," but of rights—and who could consent to stand before the foreigner in the disgraceful attitude of a suppliant, asking to be forgiven for acts of which he disavowed the responsibility; which acts, nevertheless, had been adopted on due advisement, and with a jealous regard, as we deem it, to the interest and honor of our country, by those then entrusted by the people with full authority in the premises.

We rejoice, because it is the triumph of right, in the condemnation of a mean and unscrupulous policy—that even at the hands of his own friends, that stigma is indelibly fastened upon Mr Van Buren, and all who co-operated with him in this measure—and that the recommendation of the resolution we have referred to, and here reproduce, vindicates at once the wisdom and public spirit of J. Q. Adams, and his coadjutors, and the unquestionable rights of the trade of the United States with those British colonies on the footing then contended for, and now adopted by his opponents.

Here is the resolution.

"Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested, as soon as it can be done amicably and without just cause of complaint, to rescind the reciprocity treaties subsisting between the Hanse Towns, Denmark and Sweden, and to procure such a modification of that with Great Britain as will open the trade between her colonies and the United States as with Great Britain."

The Magnetic Telegraph—its Success

The miracle of the annihilation of space is at length performed. The Baltimore Patriot of Saturday afternoon contains the action of Congress up to the moment of its going to press—received from Washington by Magnetic Telegraph Despatch. The Patriot says:

Morse's Electro Magnetic Telegraph now connects between the Capitol at Washington and the Railroad Depot in Pratt, between Charles and Light-streets, Baltimore. The wires were brought in yesterday from the outer depot and attached to the telegraphic apparatus in the third story room in the depot warehouse building. The batteries were charged this morning, and the telegraph put in full operation, conveying intelligence to and from the Capitol. A large number of gentlemen were present to see the operations of this truly astonishing contrivance. Many admitted to the room had their names sent down, and in less than a second the apparatus in Baltimore was put in operation by the attendant in Washington, and before the lapse of a half minute the same names were returned plainly written. At half-past 11 o'clock A. M. the question being asked here, "what the news was at Washington?" the answer was almost instantaneously returned—'Van Buren Stock is rising,'—meaning of course that his chances were strengthening to receive the nomination on Monday next. The time of day was also enquired for, when the response was given from the Capitol—"forty-nine minutes past eleven." At this period it was also asked now many persons were spectators to the telegraphic experiments in Washington?—the answer was "sixteen." After which a variety of names were sent up from Washington, some with their compliments to their friends here, whose names had just been transmitted to them. Several items of private intelligence were also transmitted backward and forward, one of which was an order to the agent here not to pay a certain bill. Here, however, the electric fluid proved too slow, for it had been paid a few minutes before.

At half past 12 o'clock the following was sent to Washington, "Ask a reporter in Congress to send a despatch to the Baltimore Patriot at 2 P. M." In about a minute the answer came back thus: "It will be attended to"

2 o'CLOCK P. M.—The despatch has arrived, and is as follows:

One o'clock.—There has just been made a motion in the House to go into committee of the Whole on the Oregon question. Rejected—ayes 79, nays 86.

Half past one. The House is now engaged on private bills.

Quarter of two.—Mr Atherton is now speaking in the Senate.

Mr S. will not be in Baltimore to-night.

So that we are thus enabled to give to our readers information from Washington up to 2 o'clock. This is indeed the annihilation of space.

The Clipper of Saturday contains the following information regarding the construction and working of the Telegraph:

The wire (perfectly secured against the weather by a covering of rope-yarn and tar,) is conducted on the top of posts about 20 feet high, and about 100 yards apart. We understand that the nomination on Monday next will be forwarded to Washington by Means of this Telegraph The following is the Alphabet used:

(a) . ——	(iy) . .	(r) . . .
(b) —— . . .	(k) —— . ——	(sz) . . .
(c) . . .	(l) . —— . .	(t) ——

(f) . . —— .	(o) . .	(w) . —— ——
(gj) —— —— .	(p)	(x) . ~~ . .
(h) . . .	(q) . . —— .

We have no doubt that government will deem it expedient to continue this Telegraph to Philadelphia, New-York, and Boston, when its utility shall have been fully tested. When understood, the mode of operation is plain and simple.

Curious Fact.

Dr Smith, a celebrated oculist of Troy, N. Y, has lately performed a wonderful and successful operation on a lad ten years of age, of that city, who was born blind. It is said that ten days after the operation, the boy could see the size of a pin's head, but could not call the most common article by name, without having first associated the sight with the sensation of touch; for instance, a knife, fork, or spoon, being presented to his view, he must feel the article before giving it a name, but the moment he touched the article, he could call it by the proper name.

It is said that a Swedish professor has discovered the art of producing a torpor in the human system, in which a person may remain a hundred or thousand years, and again be awakened to existence, without injury to any organ of the system. Perhaps some one would like to try this experiment, but it would be awkward if when the hundred or thousand years expired, the man engaged to do the waking up should not be on hand to attend to the business.

Whig Mass Convention.

The Whigs of Maine will assemble in a great Mass Convention at Augusta on the 27th of June to nominate a candidate for Governor and to make the necessary arrangements for the approaching elections. It is desirable there should be a general attendance from all parts of the State that there may be a general canvass of the wishes of each section and the candidate selected that will harmonize all interests, a man in whom the people can confide and who will secure the entire vote of the Whigs, that the State may be redeemed in September, and good courage given to all, that in November the vote of Maine may be given for the Whig candidates and in favor of the sustaining, fostering measures of the Whig policy.

The State of Maine, rich in natural resources and admirably adapted for the successful prosecution of manufacturing—with a healthy and industrious population possessing great energy, and with facilities for those great departments of human labor, agriculture, manufactures and commerce, and needing only a wise and prudent policy on the part of the State Government to secure an influx of foreign capital, to keep all the wheels of this prosperous and wealth giving machinery in successful motion. Thus situated it seems to be and really is a burning shame that a narrow, jealous and ruinous policy should have been so long pursued. It is time now, at least, for the people to change this policy for the wiser and better system long advocate by the Whigs, and now acknowledge, even by those who have formerly opposed it, as the true system for the interests of all the people of the State. It is clearly for the personal, pecuniary, and moral interests of every man in the State and interested in her growth and success, that a change of policy should be made; and it is therefore clearly the duty of every man to aid in effecting this change. This will effect a substantial, practical benefit. The accomplishment of it will not unfavorably affect any political rights or benefits, and can only by opposed by those whose pride of opinion leads them to hold on to an exploded idea upon the plea of consistency, or by those who are interested in sharing the emoluments or honors of office, which continued adherance to a bad policy will secure to them. The great mass of the people have a deep and important interest in this matter. Our young men and women with employment and good pay, our water power would be a large source of wealth if it could be profitably employed—our farmers would be benefited by a good home market and opportunities for profitable employment when not engaged in the work of their farms. All this could be effected, and the population and business of the State be increased and villages spring up and thrive, real estate rise in value and so of all kinds of agricultural productions. And all this by a change of policy from the narrow views of loco politicians to the measures advocated by the Whigs.

To secure this change, and its greatest efficiency by the election of those men who will go with whole-heartedness in the work, the Whigs of the State should send up large delegations to the Mass Convention and there make arrangements for spreading the light of truth into every section of the State. Let the facts be fairly and honestly and fully placed before the people and no true Whig need fear the result.

There is a great struggle going on in the country to strike down the arm of protection to American labor and thus to crush the industry of the country All the extras started in this State and there are several of them, are fiercely bent upon the destruction of the tariff and the entire overthrow of the protective policy. It is important for the people of this State, so deeply interested in the permanency of this policy to arouse themselves in its behalf and to aid in the election of its firm and fast friends.

Every consideration of true patriotism and enlightened self interest demands that the free people of this State go boldly and soberly forward in support of Whig men and Whig measures both for the welfare of the State and of the nation.

☞ The editor of the Gazette repeated yesterday his lurking slur respecting Odd Fellowship in such a manner as to lead one to the inference that, as but little was said in his paragraph, so little was intended. We care not a fig for any personal reflections upon us, coming from that quarter, and only allude to the subject now, for the purpose of calling attention to a style of little souled meanness and dirty cunning in framing paragraphs, insinuating what the writer dare not express but would have inferred, in which the editor of the Gazette delights to indulge. It affords him a screen behind which he may dodge and set up a system of special pleading as dishonest as it is contemptible For tact in this department, he has earned the highest credit, and as he relishes such honors we are willing he should wear them, or should be willing, were it not that thereby he debases the human race.

The sincerity and purity of love is best shown where the actions of the individual, not words, betray the sentiment or feeling

The Grand Van Buren National Convention.

The Convention assembled at Baltimore on the 27th inst.

The Convention was called to order by the Hon. Romulus M. Saunders of North Carolina, who nominated Hendrick B. Wright, Esq, of Penn., as Chairman. The nomination was unanimously confirmed. Thomas Ritchie, Jr. of Virginia, was chosen Secretary.

A Committee was appointed to examine credentials and draft Rules for the government of the Convention. There was much warm discussion upon the duties of these Committees and the room being excessively crowded there was great confusion.

The Chairman then reminded the Delegates that they had forgotten to open the meeting with prayer, and that two clergymen were in attendance for that purpose. This stopped the discussion and a prayer was offered and a psalm read.

A stormy time of it was again on foot and up to a late hour in the evening no nomination was made.

John Tyler National Convention.

This Convention met at Baltimore on Monday organized by choosing Hon. Joel W. White of Connecticut its President, and nominated John Tyler for President amid a noise like Bedlam—a good many protesting that the proposition was premature and out of order.

They tried to get up a conference with the Van Buren Convention but it was no go. After this great day's work they adjourned to the next day to nominate a candidate for Vice President.

Great Fire at New Orleans—300 Buildings Burnt, and Property valued at 600,000 dollars destroyed.

A most destructive fire occurred at New Orleans on the 18th, by which 290 buildings were destroyed. The fire raged for three hours, during which it kept down Jackson street—burning out to Canal street on the right and to Common on the left, and crossing Treme, Villiere, and Robinson to Clairborne streets; in all ten squares. Not one building is left on this area save the Maison de Sante.

Many of the inmates of the houses were laboring under sickness and infirmity, and their eyes rolled wildly as they were borne from their homes: mothers, half frantic, were screaming for lost children—children were rushing, with loud screams, amidst the fierce crackling of the flames, and seeking their parents in every face. All was confusion and despair; but the most distressing sight of all perhaps, was the removal of the sick from the Maison de Sante.

Caution to Boys.

Some of the Boys in our city have recently engaged in the dangerous and unlawful sport of firing India Crackers in our streets. We understand that several gentlemen in the city interested in the good order of the city, and the safety of property, and of the lives of our citizens have resolved to complain of those boys found engaging in this sport, and have them prosecuted. The fine is ten dollars, and the cost besides will amount to three or four dollars.—Rather expensive sport it will be to those found guilty. Boys take warning in season.

☞ Our correspondent at Castine states that on Wednesday last there was launched from the ship yard of Messrs Samuel Noyes & Sons, Schooner Pembroke 110 tons, calculated for the freighting business, to be commanded by Capt. Wales Bakeman, and owned by Samuel Adams and Wm. Witherlee, Esqrs.

☞ Miss EASTMAN, one of the agents for procuring subscriptions to the Lowell Offering, is now on a visit to this city. The young woman comes well recommended as worthy the highest confidence, has already obtained several subscribers, and, we hope, will obtain many more. It will be recollected that the Offering is a monthly periodical, published and edited by "Factory Girls" and it is an honor to them and an ornament to our periodical literature.

☞ The Belfast Signal says that the remark of the Bangor Democrat, that "the only democratic party in Belfast is the Republican Journal," is quite correct, at least that the Journal has been the party for years past. The little typos of the Democrat, turn out singularly enough to be truth-tellers, by accident.

☞ Our thanks are largely due and heartily tendered to Hon. Geo. Evans, Luther Severance, H. Hamlin, F. H. Morse, and John White, members of Congress, for valuable documents.

☞ We are requested to state that Mr William Bartlett has no connexion with the Daily Mercury, either of a mechanical or editorial nature.

☞ The whigs of Belfast are making arrangements for forming a Clay Club in that town.—Every where are the whigs getting ready for the campaign

The house of Hon. Benj Randall took fire on Saturday forenoon last, in the ceiling around the oven It was soon extinguished, but not without some considerable damage being done to several of the rooms in the house, consequent upon tearing the wood work away, to get at the fire [Bath Enq

WASHINGTON COFFEE HOUSE,
No. 158 Washington, at the
HEAD OF MILK STREET,
BOSTON.

THE undersigned returns his thanks to his Eastern friends and the public generally for the liberal patronage they have bestowed on him and he hopes by strict attention to his business he shall retain their favor the coming seasons, with an increase of eastern travelers.

He would give notice should the Boats and Cars run as last season, arriving in Boston from 10 to 1 A. M. at night he will be ready to receive company on the arrival of that Train and serve them with hot suppers if wanted.

The location of the House being in the midst of business of all kinds, and the different arrangement from this house formerly, or any other house in serving hot suppers cannot but meet the wishes of the eastern people.

He having the assurance of Eastern Merchants if such arrangement were made, it could not fail to be successful.

☞ Price of Board $1,00 per day—Dinner at 1 and 2 o'clock. Coaches will be in readiness to convey passengers to and from the Cars and Boats.

SANDS' SARSAPARILLA.
FOR THE REMOVAL AND PERMANENT CURE OF ALL DISEASES ARISING FROM AN IMPURE STATE OF THE BLOOD, OR HABIT OF THE SYSTEM, NAMELY:

Scrofula, or King's Evil, rheumatism, obstinate cutaneous eruptions, pimples, or pustules on the face, blotches, biles, chronic sore eyes, ring worm or tetter, scald head, enlargement and pain of the bones and joints, stubborn ulcers, syphilitic symptoms, sciatica, or lumbago, and diseases arising from an injudicious use of the mercury, ascites, or dropsy, exposure or imprudence in life. Also, chronic constitutional disorders will be removed by this preparation.

The proprietors submit to the public the following certificate, from a highly respectable source, of a cure made by using their preparation of Sarsaparilla, which cannot but have the effect of placing beyond all doubt the curative powers of the medicine:

NEW YORK, August 3, 1842.

"Messrs. Sands—Gentlemen: Under a feeling sense of gratitude inherent to us all when suddenly relieved from suffering and disease, I now, as an act of justice due to you, and with a view of relieving the afflicted, make known to the world the inestimable benefit I have received from the use of your Sarsaparilla. In the year 1832 I sailed from England in a vessel bound for Quebec, and while on the passage first discovered the disease which after proved to be a sore affliction; and truly I can say, 'from the crown of my head to the sole of my foot there was no soundness in me.' From the time first mentioned down until the present, a period of more than ten years, I have suffered all that human nature was capable of bearing. I have been under the care of the most distinguished physicians both in this country and in England, visited Bath, Cheltenham, Bristol and Gloucester, tried various specifics, among others a large quantity of Swaim's Panacea, used sulphur baths, &c. As a last resort I was induced to wrap myself in a tar ointment, keep myself secluded, shunned by all, myself also shunning. I was induced to believe my case a hopeless one.

In August last, by the advice of friends, I went to the New York City Hospital, but was there told that my case was incurable. The disease now enveloped my whole body, rendering me almost helpless; the skin thickened and cracked, and blood and matter ran, and life itself became almost a burden. A few weeks since I was induced to use your Sarsaparilla by hearing it so highly recommended, having spent nearly $3,000 without obtaining but little relief. After using it a short time, I found myself better, and now, by using six or eight bottles, costing me less than ten dollars, I am well. Yes, I certify and declare to the world, that after spending near $3,000 in traveling and doctoring, and suffering more than can be told, I was perfectly cured by using your invaluable preparation of Sarsaparilla; and I now recommend it to all similarly afflicted. Those wishing to know further particulars will find me at my residence, No. 27 Warren street, New York, where I shall be happy to communicate any thing in relation to the above cure.

PAUL BURDOCK."

Prepared and sold by A. B. SANDS & Co. Druggists and Chemists, Granite Buildings, 273 Broadway, corner of Chambers street, New York. And for sale by Druggists throughout the United States. Price $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5.

The public are respectfully requested to remember that it is Sands's Sarsaparilla that has and is constantly achieving such remarkable cures of the most difficult class of diseases to which the human frame is subject, and ask for Sands's Sarsaparilla, and take no other.

WRIGHT'S
Indian Vegetable Pills.
The True Character of Counterfeiters and Sellers of Counterfeit Medicines.

NO Medicine has been introduced to the American Public, whose virtues have been more cheerfully and universally acknowledged by its vast popularity, and extensive circulation, than "WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS."

To descant upon their various virtues at this late season would be a work of supererogation, since few who peruse this article will be found unacquainted with the widely circulated proofs of the real excellence of the Medicine, to which many will be ready to add the testimonials of their own experience. But if further proof were needed of the value of the remedy it might be found in the fact that no Medicine in the market has been so shamelessly and repeatedly counterfeited. Ignorant, envious, avaicious, and unprincipled men, have in different places, manufactured a spurious pill, bearing a superficial resemblance to the true article, but composed either of impotent or deleterious ingredients, which they have sought to foist upon the public as the veritable

Indian Vegetable Pills.

These fraudulent Swindlers could never pass off their vile wares upon the public but for the connivance and assistance of self-styled respectable Druggists, who, for the sake of a little "filthy lucre," lend themselves to the monstrous and unhallowed system of imposition. The counterfeiter of a popular medicine is more criminal than a counterfeiter of current money. The injuries done by the latter sink to nothing in comparison with those inflicted upon society by the former. We might paint him wringing the mite from the hard hand of invalid penury which is extended for the boon of health, and receives instead the vile drug that protracts and aggravates disease, or to view it in its best aspect, suffers it to rage unchecked. How melancholy is the reflection that thousands may have been hurried to the grave by having a counterfeit substituted for the true Medicine; who but for the venal fraud might now be living in high health, the delight and hope of the social circle.—All classes are interested in putting down these vile Counterfeiters.

Let the Stores where they are sold be marked and Shunned.

Let the virtuous indignation of the community administer to all concerned in these unfair practices a general and withering rebuke.

CAUTION:

The public will please observe that the genuine Medicine has the following wording on the sides of the boxes.

"WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS."
—Indian Purgative—
OF THE NORTH AMERICAN COLLEGE OF HEALTH.

And also, around the border of a label will be found in small type, "Entered according to Act of Congress in the year 1840, by William Wright, in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania."

It will be further observed that the printed direction for using the Medicine, which accompanies each box, are also entered according to Act of Congress; and the same form will be found at the bottom of the first page.

The slightest attention to the above few particulars will serve to protect the purchaser from fraud, and save the lives of those who may otherwise be endangered by using a Counterfeit Medicine.

The public will also remember, that all those who sell the genuine Indian Vegetable Pills are provided with a certificate of Agency, signed by

WILLIAM WRIGHT, Vice President
Of the American College of Health:

and that Pedlars are never in any case allowed to sell the genuine article. All traveling Agents will be provided with a certificate of Agency as above described; and those who cannot show one will be known as base imposters.

The regularly appointed Agents can receive their supplies of the above popular pills, as heretofore, from the only Office and General Depot for the New England States
